

Search...

Login

Personal Stories

Women's Perspectives Must Be Included In Climate Conversations

Women should not be viewed solely as passive victims of environmental degradation but as powerful agents of change who can contribute significantly to sustainable solutions.

Pradip Shah

22 Feb 2024 17:21 IST

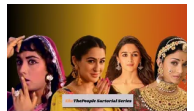

Follow Us

Women participating in tree plantation activities | Image provided by the author

In the global discourse on climate change, a crucial yet often overlooked perspective is that of women. While climate change affects everyone, women, girls, and marginalised communities are disproportionately vulnerable to its devastating impacts.

Latest Stories

You May Like

Powered By

Read More

Couple Made a Bet, See How They Look After A Year

House Jogger | Sponsored

Read Next Story >

This Rs.1999 Smartwatch Surprises The Whole Country!

This new smartwatch is taking over India. See why it's gaining popularity quickly and selling